290-040-040-.02 Certain Teaching Techniques.

(1) The State Board of Education is aware of concerns that certain techniques in some school materials or programs need clarification. The State Board of Education specifically prohibits the use of hypnosis and dissociative mental states. School personnel shall be prohibited from using any techniques that involve the induction of hypnotic states, guided imagery, meditation or yoga. These terms are defined as follows:

(a) Dissociative Mental State--Another way of describing a hypnotic state. It refers to the separation or isolation of mental processes in such a way that they become split off from the main personality or lose their normal thought-affect relationship. In such a state the boundary between the real and fantasy or illusion becomes blurred.
(b) Hypnosis--A dissociative or altered state of consciousness, usually artificially induced, characterized by a heightened responsiveness to suggestions and commands, suspension of disbelief with lowering of critical judgment, the potential of alteration of perceptions.

A common induction technique is that of progressive relaxation. This involves the serial or sequential use, in some combination, of the following: turning off the lights, reclining, closing the eyes, counted measured deep breathing, exercises, counting backwards, alternate tensing and relaxing of muscle groups, or repeating a single word or phrase.

(c) Guided Imagery--Can be described with various terms or labels, such as visualization, visual imagery, guided imagery or guided fantasy. Guided imagery is used as an induction or deepening technique of hypnosis/meditation. It involves the communication or suggestion, describing a scene in which the student/subject is encouraged to experientially participate, normally following a progressive relaxation technique.

NOTE: Guided imagery, a common induction technique of hypnosis, should not be confused with the normal use of the imagination.

(d) Meditation--An altered or dissociative state, of consciousness often synonymous with hypnosis associated with or derived from the mystical traditions of the East, sometimes called transcendental meditation, normally induced by progressive relaxation (H. Benson's Relaxation Response), focusing on deep breaths and a mantra (repeated word or phrase).

NOTE: This is not to be confused with secular meditation which involves alert, reflective and cognitive contemplation.

(e) Yoga--A Hindu philosophy and method of religious training in which eastern meditation and contemplation are joined with physical exercises, allegedly to facilitate the development of body-mind-spirit.

(2) Consistent with state law, all school personnel charged with the responsibility of teaching students should take great care to emphasize that conduct prohibited by law is not appropriate in a civilized society. School personnel should also emphasize the consequences of conduct that is prohibited by law or that is highly likely to result in harmful consequences to the health of a person. Such conduct shall not be presented to students as legitimate options for their consideration. Nothing contained herein shall be interpreted as requiring the teaching of and/or about alternative lifestyles and/or illegal conduct.
(3) Local boards of education should make great efforts to identify parental concerns. Specifically, local boards of education shall, at a minimum, afford parents access to instructors and the opportunity to review the programs and materials to be utilized. For programs and materials not otherwise subject to state or local review processes, local boards should make every effort to seek the support of school patrons.
